a. At a glance

Vietnam lies in the heart of Southeast Asia and spans across 330,967 km². It is home to over 90 million people with nearly 50% of the population below age of 30[1]. The country has experienced stable economic growth in recent years with GDP growth rate averaging 6.15 percent from year 2000 and 2015. The formation of ASEAN Economic Community and the passing of the TPP will provide a favourable setting for Vietnam’s economy and increase foreign investments into the country.

b. Vibrant Ho Chi Minh City

Located in the South of Vietnam, Ho Chi Minh City (HCMC), formerly named Saigon, is one of the largest and most important cities in Vietnam. This city is not only a centre of commerce and finance, but also Vietnam’s hub for science, culture, education and technology. With a young and dynamic population of over 8 million people and a growing middle class, HCMC has enormous market potential. The city boasts the best infrastructure in the nation including modern transportation and telecommunication systems to create modern well-planned city that can become the most desirable and international business centre in Southeast Asia.
c. Top reasons to invest in property in Vietnam

Capital appreciation. The property market’s long term growth is highly potential, driven by the country’s stable political environment, promising economy, high urbanisation rate and young population.

Affordability. High-end residential options with a full suite of complimentary facilities, good location, and convenient accessibility are very affordable, compared to its regional peers.

Rental yields. With the increasing inflow of foreign investment, more expatriates and local professionals are expected to relocate to Vietnam’s major cities, which promises good rental yields for homeowners.

Tourism paradise. A popular tourist destination with major ASEAN cities located within a 2-hour flight, Vietnam is an ideal place for vacationers and retirees.
FOREIGN HOME OWNERSHIP

a. Law on Residential Housing 2014

The Law provides regulatory conditions for residential property ownership in Vietnam. The law which took effect on 1 July 2015 allows foreigners granted entry into Vietnam to buy residential properties in the country.

b. Land use rights

Private ownership of land is not recognized in Vietnam. Under the laws, the Vietnamese hold all ownership rights with the State as the administrator on their behalf. However, the laws of Vietnam allow individual person or corporate entity to have ownership of a right to use land as the land user. Such right is called the land use right (“LUR”). A building, house or apartment constructed on land may be owned where a person has a consolidated legal document called as “Certificate of Land Use Right and Ownership of House and Other Assets on the Land” (or in short as the “Pink Book” or “LURC”).

c. Eligibility

Foreign individuals: who are granted entry into Vietnam and not entitled to privileges and diplomatic immunity.

Detailed documentation: valid passport affixed with an entry stamp by the immigration authority of Vietnam and such individual must not be in the category of people entitled to preferential treatment or diplomatic immunity.

Foreign entities: who are foreign invested enterprises, branches and representative offices of foreign enterprises, foreign funds, and branches of foreign banks duly operating in Vietnam.

Detailed documentation: an investment registration certificate or document proving permission to operate in Vietnam (both referred to as “Investment Registration Certificate” or “IRC”) as issued by the competent agency of Vietnam and effective as at the time of entering into the residential housing attraction.
d. Rights & Protections

Foreign individuals granted Pink Books for their residential property in Vietnam will be entitled to ownership and use rights similar to the local Vietnamese, except for certain restrictions including purchase limit & ownership tenure (as mentioned in Section 2e below). These rights include without limitations:

- To use their houses for residential and other purposes not prohibited by law;
- To maintain, renovate, demolish, or rebuild their houses in accordance with conditions and procedures of Laws on Construction;
- To carry out real estate transactions on their properties such as selling, leasing, gifting, bequeathing, etc., in accordance with conditions and procedures of Law on Residential Housing 2014;
- To receive the compensation in accordance with market price as prescribed in Laws when the State demolishes, purchases compulsorily, or commandeers their houses for the purposes of national defense and security, socio-economic development, disaster prevention, or in the state of wars or emergencies; and
- To file complaints, denunciation, or lawsuits over violations against their lawful ownership rights.

Foreign entities can use their properties with similar rights as mentioned but only as accommodation available to their staff. Such rights are also subject to certain restrictions including purchase limit and ownership tenure (to be provided below). To clarify, foreign entities are not allowed to use their houses for business including sublease, offices for other purposes unless the Foreign entities having registered their real estate business activities with the licensing authorities.

Foreign homebuyers are not required to reside or work in Vietnam to be eligible for house ownership.

Despite the difference in tenure of ownership for foreign and local homebuyers, there is no difference in the purchase price between a local and foreign purchaser.

PAYMENT

For a quick overview on financial support available to foreign homebuyers, please refer to Section 7.

a. Quoted price for apartment units

Whether the quoted price is inclusive of Value Added Tax or Maintenance Fee should be clearly indicated in the SPA:

Quoted Price = Apartment Price + Value Added Tax + Maintenance fee

Value Added Tax (VAT): Is usually 10% of the apartment value at the moment. VAT rate is subject to change in accordance to prevailing laws on VAT.

Maintenance Fee (or Sinking Fund): Before the handover of the unit, all apartment owners have to contribute 2% of the apartment price for the maintenance and major repairs of common areas in the apartment building (or other rate as stipulated by the Government from time to time). This Maintenance Fee is not used for the operation and management of the condominium, which will be covered by Management & Operation Fee.

b. Transaction Costs

Besides VAT and Maintenance Fees which have been included in the quoted price, real estate transactions often result in the following transaction costs:

Registration Tax (Upon registration for Pink Book): 0.5% of the apartment value (capped at VND 500 mil.) and in the case of land residential property, 0.5% * land or house area * land price announced by the local people’s committee at the time of registration.

Notary’s Fees: Calculated based on the value of the property under transaction (from VND 1 mil. and capped at VND 10 mil.)

Personal Income Tax (PIT): Income gained from real estate transaction is taxable with tax rate fixed at 2% (of the selling price). Currently, tax laws in Vietnam allow PIT exemption in case the transfer is between immediate family members or the seller owns only one real property and meets other criteria.

It is a common practice in Vietnam for:
+ The seller to bear the PIT;
+ The buyer to bear the Registration Tax;
+ Both parties to negotiate who will bear the remaining taxes and fees.

(All these costs are subject to change in accordance with relevant laws and regulations)

c. Payment Methods

For the first Deposit payment:
(a) transfer payment directly from overseas to the developer’s bank account in Vietnam;
(b) make cash payment in VND to developer’s bank account in Vietnam;
(c) pay by credit card (buyer must be the card holder); or
(d) open a local bank account in Vietnam to transfer payment to developer’s bank account;

For the first and subsequent installment payment:
(a) it is advised that buyer should open a local bank account in Vietnam to transfer payment to developer’s bank account;

Please note that cross-border cash transfer and movement are strictly monitored in Vietnam, read more on Section 7. In the event of tax clearance and/or profit repatriation, the buyers are to seek independent opinions from the professional advisors.

d. Payment Scheme

The developers will provide the payment scheme, which will be clearly indicated in the SPA. Usually subject to negotiation between buyers and sellers, homebuyers can choose to pay in lump sum or to make milestone payments. For projects being under construction, the current Law on Real Estate Business sets the collection limit to 30% for initial installment, to 50% for foreign developers and 70% for local Vietnamese developers prior to the handover. Plus, they can only collect up to 95% of the home value before the issuance Ownership Certificate (Pink Book).
HAN DOVER

a. Warranty & Insurance

Developers are required by laws to provide homebuyers warranty services for the house structures and equipment which malfunction or are damaged. The warranty period starts from handover date and must last at least 24-60 months depending on the property types. Warranty terms shall be clearly indicated in the SPA.

Developers are not bounded by law to offer homebuyers insurance for their purchased properties. Homeowners are recommended to arrange insurance for their property on their own.

b. Failure to deliver

Late handover may result in a compensation amount equal to the interest on the paid amounts to the buyer. The interest rate shall be equal to the lending rate at a commercial bank at the time of the late handover.

In case the developer cannot commit to the ultimate deadline for handover as stated in the SPA, the buyer has the right to unilaterally terminate the SPA. The buyer shall be refunded the full paid amount plus compensation amount as mutually agreed in the SPA.

c. After-sale costs

Management Fee will be paid monthly by the residents and used for the operation and management of the condominium. Services include, but are not limited to, elevator’s operation, security services, garbage collection, pest control, janitorial and gardening services, and maintenance of common facilities, etc. The monthly fee is calculated based on the carpet area.

Miscellaneous Fees such as utilities fees, parking fees, etc. shall be set as follow:
- Before BOC is formed: buyer shall pay the miscellaneous fee as set out by by Developer.
- After BOC is formed: buyer shall pay this fee with the rate decide by BOC.
